Rights of Parents and Children

MLO 9.2.2

Explaining the significance of honoring parents according to Quranic verses and Prophetic teachings and consequences of being dutiful or undutiful to parents as described in Islamic sources.

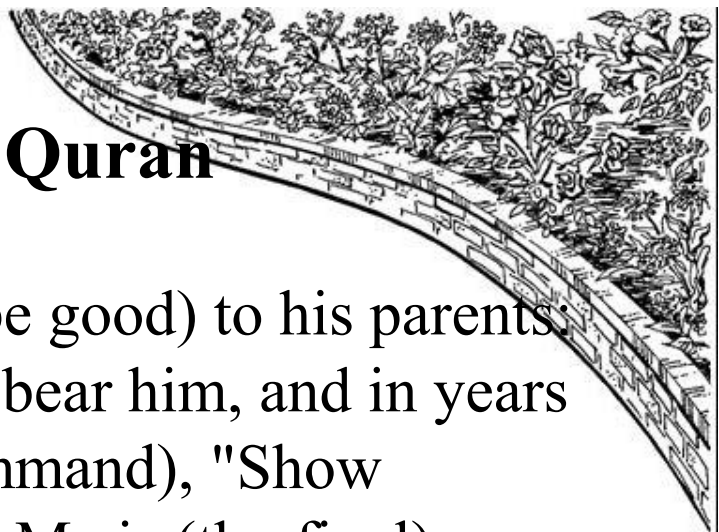

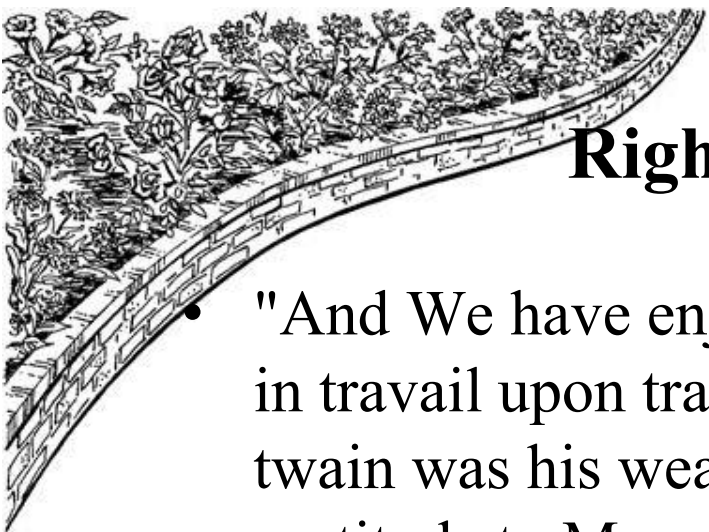

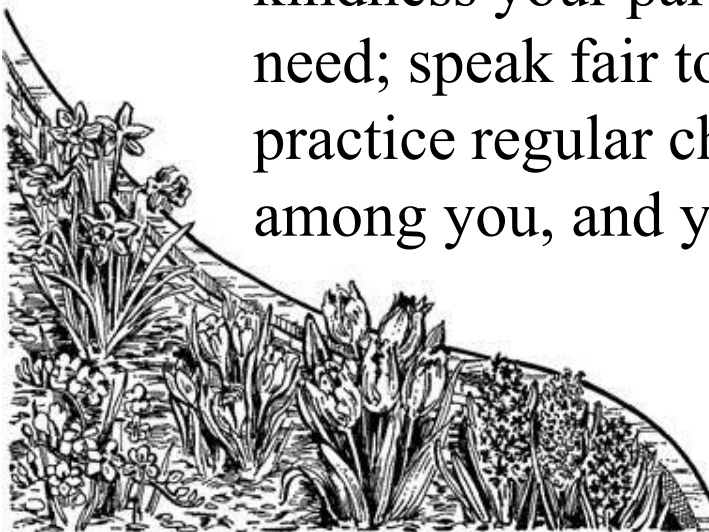

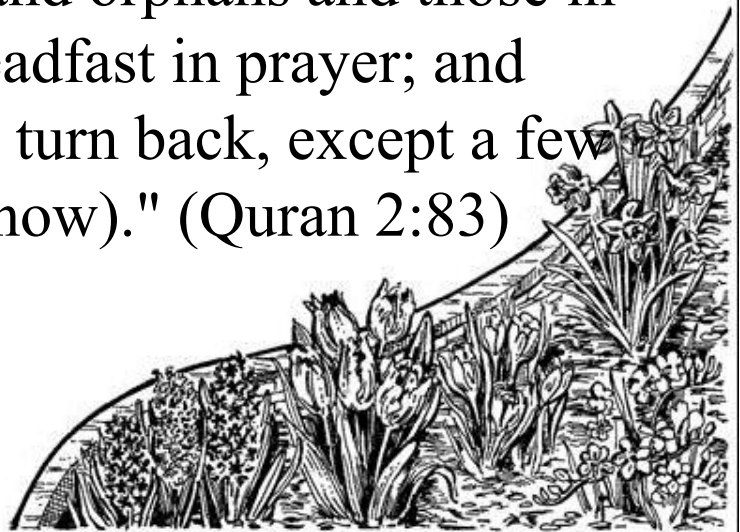

Rights according to Quran

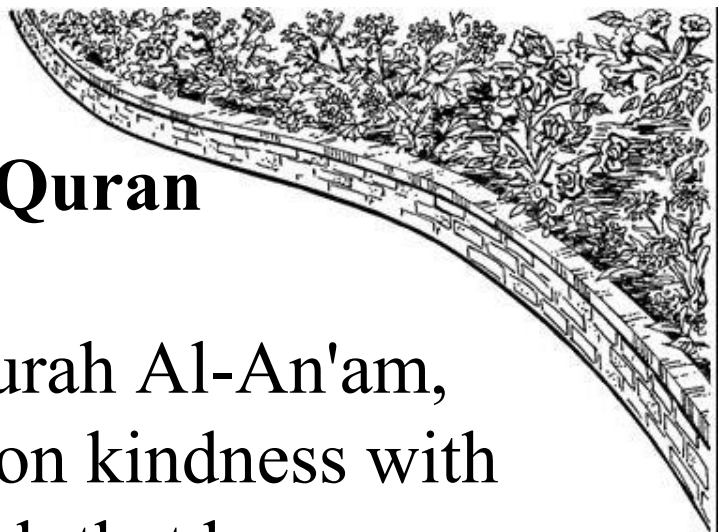

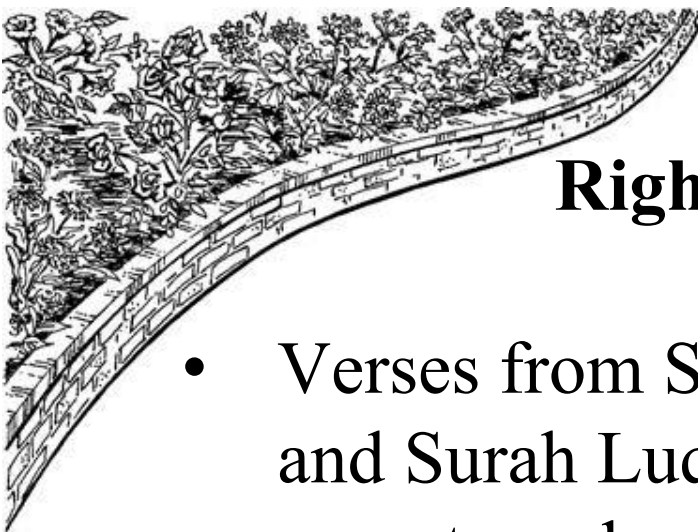

- Avoiding even a small word of contempt, such as "Uff"
- Remaining humble and praying for them: "My Lord, bless them as they cherished me in childhood"

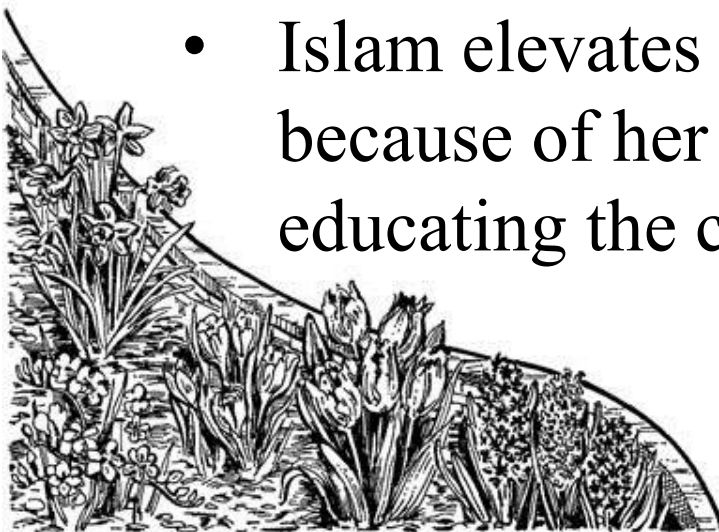

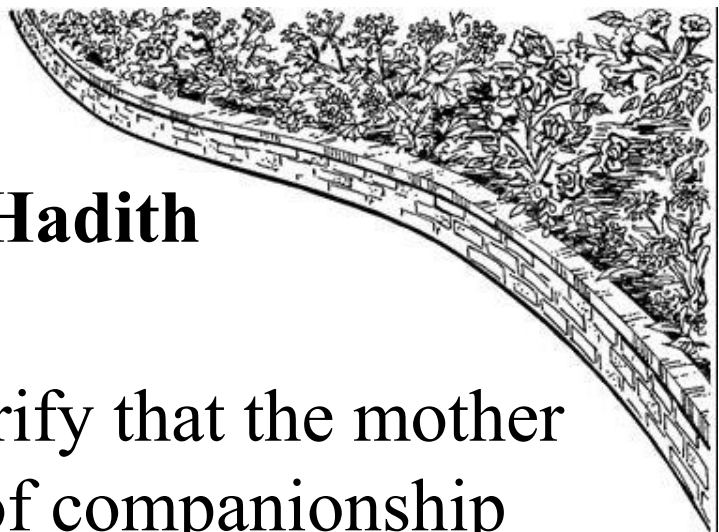

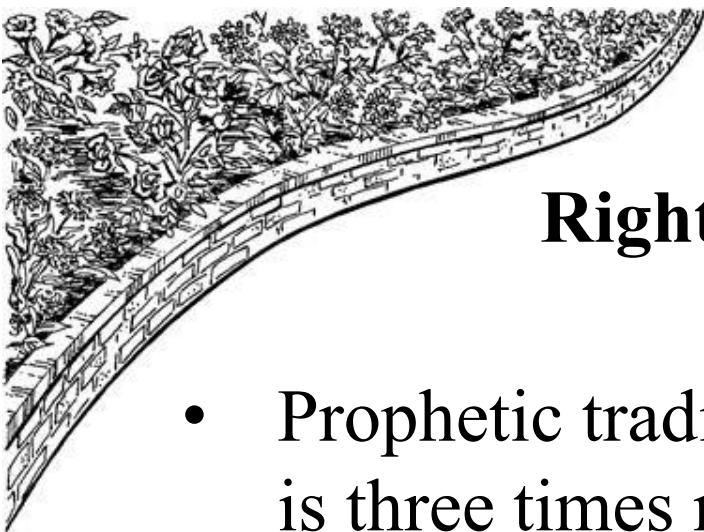

Rights according to Quran

- "And We have enjoined on man (to be good) to his parents: in travail upon travail did his mother bear him, and in years twain was his weaning: (hear the command), "Show gratitude to Me and to thy parents: to Me is (thy final) Goal." (Quran 31:14)
 - "And remember We took a covenant from the Children of Israel (to this effect): Worship none but Allah; treat with kindness your parents and kindred, and orphans and those in need; speak fair to the people; be steadfast in prayer; and practice regular charity. Then did ye turn back, except a few among you, and ye backslide (even now)." (Quran 2:83)

Rights according to Quran

- Verses from Surah An-Nisa, Surah Al-An'am, and Surah Luqman emphasize on kindness with parents and respecting the womb that bore you and recognizing the extreme physical hardship and weakness a mother undergoes during pregnancy and the two years of weaning.
 - Islam elevates the mother's status specifically because of her continuous sacrifice in raising and educating the child.

Rights according to Hadith

- Prophetic traditions further clarify that the mother is three times more deserving of companionship and respect than the father.
 - While the father is responsible for protection and material requirements, the mother's role in emotional and psychological nurturing is deemed vital for a child's personality development.
